1. DINO DISCOVERY

Did you know that dinosaurs hatched from eggs, just like birds. The largest dino egg fossil ever found is larger than a football! Make your own moving mini-model of a dinosaur hatching from its egg.

Tip: Something with a hinge will help you to release the beast!

You'll need: Card, scissors, glue or tape, clothes peg or clip

2. HISTORICAL FICTION

Bored at home? Grab your coat and take a walk. You open the front door and...hmm, everything looks a little 'off'.

The question isn't where are you but when are you? What clues do you see, hear and smell to help you work it out? Explore your neighbourhood and write travel notes about your adventure. Will you stay when you are now or return home to 2020?

Level up: Record an audio version of your story, including some creative sound effects.

3. CAVE CREATIONS

Ancient humans shared stories and information through cave paintings. These used simple shapes, lines and colours to show where to find food, safe water or where there was danger. Make a 21st Century cave painting showing where to find food, water and shelter today.

You'll need: Pen, pencils or paint, paper

4. MANSA MUSA MYSTERY

Mansa Musa was emperor of the African nation of Mali in the 14th Century. He was probably the richest person ever, and his people thought he was a generous and beloved leader.

1. Imagine you were Mansa Musa's advisor. What advice would you give to help him spend his money wisely?
2. If you had as much gold as Mansa Musa today, what would you do with it? Would you keep it for yourself or give it away?

You'll need: Wisdom

COMPETITION

5. MAZE MASTER

Make a tricky labyrinth (maze) from items around the house. Include an object to act as a monstrous minotaur, a maze-guarding creature from Greek mythology. Can anyone get through without disturbing the minotaur? You could make a mini paper and pencil version or even a digital maze with Minecraft or Scratch.

Send us a pic of your creation for a chance to win an a-maze-ing prize. 🏆
